New comprehensive guide on local exhaust ventilation (LEV)

Controlling airborne contaminants at work: A guide to local exhaust ventilation (LEV) HSG258

This new book provides guidance on the supply of new LEV equipment. It describes the principles and good practice of deciding on, designing, commissioning and testing cost-effective local exhaust ventilation.

This guidance is written for the suppliers of LEV goods and services. It will be helpful for employers and managers in medium sized businesses and trade union and employee safety representatives. All of these groups need to work together to provide, maintain and use effective LEV, and to reduce exposure from inhalation of hazardous substances.

The book contains information about:

- the roles and legal responsibilities of suppliers, and of their clients as employers
- competence
- principles of good design practice for effective LEV hoods and their classification
- ducts, air movers, air cleaners
- system documentation – with checking and maintenance schedules, marking defective equipment

NEW features include:

- Specification of LEV
- Supplier's quotation
- Commissioning
- Zone marking
- User manual
- Logbook
- Testing – hood label

It replaces HSG37 Introduction to local exhaust ventilation and HSG54 Maintenance, examination and testing of local exhaust ventilation

HSE has also produced a leaflet and a pocket card for employees:
