

Is poultry dust making you ill?

This pocket card is for workers in the poultry farming industry. It gives simple advice on what employees should do to protect their breathing.

This is a web-friendly version of pocket card INDG426, published 02/09

Is poultry dust making you ill?

Report symptoms of ill health to your boss and your doctor

This pocket card is available in priced packs of 25 from HSE Books. ISBN 978 0 7176 6349 1. Single free copies are also available from HSE Books. Tel: 01787 881165.

© Crown copyright This publication may be freely reproduced, except for advertising, endorsement or commercial purposes. First published 02/09. Please acknowledge the source as HSE.

Printed on paper made using 50% recycled fibre from post-consumer sources.

INDG426 02/09

C400

Printed and published by the Health and Safety Executive

Wear the respirator all the time when working inside the poultry house

Check the fit of the respirator before each use

The air inside poultry houses contains harmful dusts and micro-organisms

Poultry workers often have breathing problems caused by work (cough, shortness of breath, wheezing)

Follow good working practices set up by your employer

Wear the correct respirator (eg dust mask) for the job

